

Answer Key

Section 2: The Twenties Woman (pages 440–443)

1. Flappers were part of the rebellion against traditional values that occurred in the twenties.
2. First, women went back to the “women’s professions” of teaching, nursing, and social work. Second, many took new jobs doing clerical work.

Skillbuilder

1. Most women were employed as domestic workers.
2. Yes, the percentage of women with clerical jobs increased.