

Answer Key

Section 3: Education and Popular Culture (pages 446–451)

1. Possible response: Newspapers and magazines were very popular.
2. In an age of sensationalism and excess, Lindbergh stood for the honesty and bravery the nation seemed to have lost.